

Hands On Training with AnEx Advantage Lands the Job

New York City (NY) August 9, 2011—A former AnEx Advantage (anexadvantage.com) participant credits their landing their job in the financial sector with their program. Gaining much needed hands-on experience as a investment banking analyst was an important step to gaining the right position after earning an MBA and AnEx Advantage was able to provide that training effectively and with top rated pros in the field.

“I knew that I had to have hands on training in order to be competitive,” states Matthew S., former graduate of the AnEx Advantage program. “I knew that my MBA was important, I also needed to gain the skills through first hand knowledge and build a solid foundation in the necessary skill sets. Going through the AnEx Advantage program was exactly what I needed.”

“After looking numerous options I chose AnEx Advantage because it exposes participants to the actual workings of live transactions.” Working professionals in numerous firms offer hands on learning experiences rather than textbook cases facilitate the unique program.

Paul Pignataro, Founder and CEO of AnEx Advantage shares, “We continue to improve the program each year. Trainees are working on more live deals than ever before. What makes us unique is we now have years of experience matching trainees and partner firms to hand-pick the perfect experience for each candidate. Further, throughout the program we continue to educate the trainee on banking and technical skills. The result is a candidate with an arsenal of deals on their resume and the skills to prove it. There’s nothing like this out there.”

When asked which one area shines from the training provided by AnEx Advantage Matthew perks up and readily says, “having a model that I had built from scratch used as the analytical tool in a live transaction was the most rewarding experience for me.” These one of a kind experiences occur due to the ability of the trainers to capitalize on the participant’s strengths. They work one on one with instructors and professionals in the field to do real time work, taking their education to a whole new level.

“These kinds of opportunities don’t happen by chance – we facilitate them to make sure each student is getting the most out of the training. Their success is what is important to us,” quotes Paul.

“They helped me through the interview preparation process and critiqued my resume after the internship,” states Matthew. “I attribute my success in the recruiting process with the support I received from AnEx. I know I would not have landed my current position as an IB Analyst without the support and experience I had with AnEx Advantage.
